A SHARED EXPERIENCE

James Huneker, for years drama critic for the defunct New York Sun, after reading the last act of Candida growled, "You grind your teeth over it, as Mr. Shaw peeps across the top of the page, indulging in one of his irritating dental displays." We wish your dentures no harm, but we do hope to arouse such a feeling tonight. This is the fondest dream of the Community Theatre, to create an experience the audience must take home. We're not professionals — though we have had and will have highly professional performances — we must try to reach our goal with enthusiasm, patience, and most of all a love of the theatre. Many of you share our dream — we wish you would include your time, energy, talents, and ideas by joining our group.

Before the weather forces us to leave this barn for which we have so much affection, one more play is scheduled. It's "The Pot Boiler," a free one-act curtain-raiser, directed by Harold Brown and appearing September 25 and 26.

The first play of the indoor season will be a mystery (to be announced), directed by Marvin Katz. It's scheduled for the Junior High School, October 30 and 31. This will be followed by three more plays, dates will be announced after September 1.

Anyone wishing to be put on the mailing list or to become a member may sign up at the refreshment table during intermission or call JoAnn Yorks, ADams 8-9527.

The highly successful Festival of Foreign Films, here in the Barn, has three more films coming up. They are "Genevieve" (in English — a comedy about antique cars), "Stairway to Heaven" (in English — a W. W. II fantasy film), "The Sheep Has 5 Legs" (in French with subtitles — a comedy with 5 Fernandel's). Because of the popularity of these showings the group is making plans for a winter series.

SPOTLIGHTS . . .

GIL ABERG is a radio and TV producer at the University and writer of the popular University TV program, "Key To The Cupboard." He was most recently seen in the role of Commissar Gorotchenko in the Community Theatre production "Tovarich."

RUBY RIEMER has taught part-time in the Philosophy department at the University. Her most recent acting was done in high school, but she has maintained an active interest in theatre throughout her married life. She and her husband Neal are the parents of three boys.

JACK BRILHART is an instructor in speech at the University, working on his doctoral degree. He previously taught dramatics and directed plays at a Kentucky high school for three years. In the recent Community Theatre production, "Tovarich," he was Governor of the Bank of France.

DENNIS OLIVER is a senior at The Hill School. Next year he hopes to enter the Humanities program at the University of Chicago. He appeared at Standing Stone last summer in a small role in one of the Inge plays.

WILLIAM SMITH works part-time for the Department of Publications at the University. His only "honest" experience as an actor was the role of the French banker in the production, "Tovarich."

ANITA KRAUTKOPF has an M.S. in Clinical Speech from the University. She has appeared in "You Can't Take It With You," "Mad Woman of Chaillot," "Climate of Eden," etc., while in college.

HANK MOEHLING is a graduate student in Speech. He has appeared in over a dozen plays in community theatres in Allentown and Philadelphia including "Born Yesterday," "Dial M for Murder," and "My Three Angels."
